Yesterday's energy for bringing out the crazies will remain with us through today, so watch for those not having both beaters in the batter. The early to mid predawn may have a brief period of relationship issues, but this will pass quickly. The late predawn to very early morning has a short burst of erratic aggressiveness, and this will be fleeting as well. The morning is mixed. Take a friendly approach and avoid any minor irritability that may arise. The mid afternoon may have some coercive attitudes, but this should be easily dealt with. The rest of the afternoon into the evening is open and good moods should run through the later evening into the late night.

☽	♍	♁	6:57
☽	♎	♁	9:15

There are two major energies to be aware of today. The first indicates a general shift in thinking and communication patterns into a more assertive and at times aggressive mode. This will remain until the 17th when it will shift again. The second is somewhat cautionary. Be on the lookout for the exposure of things normally kept secret and hidden. Guard your secrets and observe as others' come to light. This energy also easily brings problems to communication and transportation. Watch for pushy, aggressive, coercive and just plain nasty attitudes. Some people will not be easy to get along with today. The Moon will be void of course from 5:12 this morning until 4:54 this afternoon when it enters Pisces. At that point the energy will lift noticeably and general moods will tend to become more mellow if a bit spacy. There is scattered minor irritability through the void of course, so try to relax, take it easy, and tend to old business. Moods will improve following the void, but watch the later evening for a period of hard attitudes.

Yesterday's cautionary energy will remain very much with us today so reread and apply the warnings. There is another major energy today that is related to yesterday's and continues the cautions. This aspect easily brings problems to communication and transportation, especially where people run into restrictions and frustrations and erratically and impulsively act out on them. This is a bad combination of energy, and as one feeds off the other, both blow up into one big mess. Don't be among those caught up in all of this. Aside from the major energy, the morning is open. Good moods should run through the afternoon and the evening opens up.

Watch for fallout and issues from the past two days to linger through today. Reread and apply. You will notice energy levels rising throughout the day as tomorrow's new Moon rolls in. Consider today to begin the new Moon period and be good. Pay attention to relationships, take an innovative and expansive approach and make good use of the predawn if your schedule has you active through that period. Good moods should run from the late predawn through the mid morning. The rest of the morning and most of the afternoon is open. Relationships will likely be featured again in the late afternoon. The Moon will be void of course from 5:42 this afternoon until 8:26 this evening when it enters Aries. At that point the energy will lift, general moods will tend to become more assertive and aggressive and the new Moon will begin in earnest. There may be a coercive irritability and erratic hard attitudes in the late night. Remember the new Moon and make good choices.

Today is new Moon day. It is exact at 11:54 tonight. Remember that what you start at around new Moon brings results at the next full Moon. This particular new to full period is not as intense as the one last month, but still needs to be handled carefully and can be used in very positive ways. Pay attention to matters of self discipline and making positive changes at deep levels. There is a major energy that indicates a general shift in relationships and aesthetics toward a more active and self directed mode. Minor aspects are of no help today and good choices will be needed. Have fun tonight, but remember the new Moon and be good.

Consider the new Moon to continue through today and tomorrow at least and remember to pay attention to the things that you put in motion. There are four more major energies today. The first focuses on communication in relationships. There may be a great deal of activity here, but there may be a compulsiveness to it that can play into the third energy. The second calls into question issues of self discipline. Watch for some people to run into limitations, restrictions and frustrations with a tendency to act out on them. This energy also easily leads to problems with and for authority so be careful in your dealings in those situations. The third tends to bring about a heavy and potentially coercive sexuality. While this can be fun for some, it can be unsettling and even dangerous for others. As always with this energy, protect the vulnerable. The fourth brings out the space cases. Watch for those overdoing recreational substances and the otherwise out of it who will be out and about. Minor aspects are mixed, but more positive than otherwise so good choices can bring an enjoyable day. Do be aware, however, that the Moon will be void of course from 11:00 this morning until 9:19 tonight when it enters Taurus. At that point the energy will lift noticeably and general moods will tend to become more down to earth and concerned with enjoyment.

High energy from yesterday will remain with us through today. Reread and apply the cautions carefully. There is another major energy that easily brings problems to relationships and serves to prolongs and intensify any unpleasantness from yesterday. Those who got caught up in the heavy and coercive sexuality in a problematic way will find the consequences to be much harsher and longer lasting than usual with unexpected twists and turns through today. This energy by itself bears watching with feelings of restriction, rebellion and sudden acting out in startlingly damaging ways. Damage control. There is scattered minor irritability in the predawn, but moods should be better through the daytime. This is a day for the right choices.

High cautionary energy from the past two days, especially regarding relationships, is likely to remain with us through today. This especially true for those who ran afoul of the cautionary nature of it. Some will be dealing with the aftermath for a long time to come. Most of us will not have been involved in the worst of it, but you may well know or at least see some who have. A little kindness will definitely be needed. Good moods will run through the predawn and into the morning. The Moon will be void of course from 11:12 this morning until 9:27 tonight when it enters Gemini. At that point the energy will lift very noticeably and general moods will tend to become more communicative. Try to relax, take it easy and tend to old business during the void of course. Minor aspects through the void do tend to indicate spaciness, irritability and aggressive attitudes. This will continue after the void ends with minor coerciveness and hard attitudes. Choose well.

There is a major energy running through today that is positive for any anything involving science, technology and magic. It is also very good for any kind of fun, unusual and stimulating activity. Take a novel approach to your dealings with authority. Be ready to explain yourself, however. Minor aspects are more positive than otherwise and except for a brief period of minor irritability in the late predawn, this should be a good mood enjoyable day.

There are three major energies running through today. The first continues yesterday's and intensifies it. There may be more of a tendency to press harder and it can be in bad combination with the other two. The second comes across as high positive energy, and it is, but it needs to be handled carefully as it is very easy to get carried away with it. People will have a tendency towards feelings of confidence and well being, thinking that they can do anything. The problem is in overdoing and overreaching. Ego battles can easily flare up. The third adds the real spice to the mix. This is an excess of energy for communication and transportation, and many will be going after unrealistic goals. Used wisely, this combination of energies can be of tremendous benefit, but let off its leash can lead to all manner of discord, disappointment, discombobulation and conflict. Don't make promises you're not sure you can keep. The Moon will be void of course from 12:11 this afternoon until 10:43 tonight when it enters Cancer. At that point the energy will lift very noticeably and general moods will tend to become more sensitive and protective. Choices.

High energy from yesterday will run strongly through today. Especially since the end of yesterday's Moon void of course which kept a bit of a lid on it. Reread and apply. There is another major energy today that is related and easily leads to all of yesterday's energies piling on and grinding one down. Be careful in all your dealings with others. Watch for hard attitudes and people having bad reactions to any limitations, disappointments and other walls that may be hit. Have fun, but be careful tonight.

Fallout from the past couple days is likely to continue through today. Watch for and deal wisely with it. There are three more energies coming into focus throughout the day. The first is very positive for any meditation, prayer or other spiritual practices. Those so involved should make the most of it. The second is very social, but can lead to problems in relationships. Watch for spaciness, confusion and misunderstanding, especially where intoxicants and the otherwise out of it are involved. The third is very good for any pursuit having to do with science, technology, electronic media and magic. It is also great for any fun, unusual and stimulating activities. Minor aspect are mixed at best. Watch for a period of very bad moods and spaciness through the early to mid afternoon. Also be aware that the Moon will be void of course from 2:32 this afternoon until 2:29 in tomorrow's early predawn when it enters Leo. At that point the energy will lift very noticeably and general moods will tend to become more intense and concerned with self.

Late Saturday night social energy will run very strongly into today's predawn, especially after the Moon void of course ends. All of the high energy mentioned yesterday will run very strongly through today as well. There are two more major energies to deal with that add fuel to any fires that may have begun yesterday. The first is an excess of energy for anything having to do with communication and transportation. Watch as people try to say and do too much and generally get carried away with themselves. Don't make promises that you can't keep. The second is more cautionary. Keep an eye out for those running into restrictions and frustrations who act out in ways up to and including violence. This is a bad combination of energies that in extreme cases can generate headlines. Do not let minor disputes escalate and be ready to switch to damage control at a moment's notice.

This aspect is very good for meditation, prayer and other spiritual practices. Be open to the intuitive process and pay attention to dreams. Beneficial information will be more accessible than it usually is, but may come in subtle ways. Be alert for it and make good use of it when it comes. Follow your inner guidance. Minor aspects are mixed. Most of the predawn is open, but the early morning may have a brief period of coercive irritability. Moods will improve through the rest of the morning, but watch the mid to late afternoon erratic emotional responses. The evening may feature some spaciness, but the later evening into the late night has good moods. Last night's Moon void of course period runs through today's predawn and ends at 9:07 this morning when the Moon enters Virgo. At that point the energy will lift noticeably and general moods will tend to become more discerning and concerned with detail. There is a major energy running through the day that is very good for looking within and coming to greater self understanding. As with yesterday, pay attention to the intuitive process, the content of dreams and your own inner guidance. Moods should be positive following the void of course. A cooperative and disciplined approach will serve best through the rest of the morning. There may be a brief period of aggressiveness in the early afternoon, but this will likely pass unnoticed. Aside from the major energy, the predawn is open. The early morning may have some minor irritability followed by some minor relationship issues. The early afternoon has a short burst of erratic emotional reactions, but this should be easily dealt with. Pay positive attention to relationships and take a fun and active approach through the rest of the afternoon and evening. At that point the energy will lift very noticeably and general moods will tend to become more concerned with balance and beauty. There are four major energies running through today. The first is a continuation from the past few days. Make good use of it. The second indicates a general shift in thought, communication and transportation toward a more down to earth and solid mode. The third can bring problems to relationships. Watch for sudden, unrealistic and unreasonable demands for change. Handled carefully, this energy can be fun and stimulating with unusual activities, but again, carefully. Saturday, 19th

The positive energy from the past two days will continue through today and this will be a very high energy day. The Sun enters the fixed earth sign Taurus late this morning and the middle portion of the spring season begins. During this time, work to solidify the beginnings made back at the Vernal Equinox last month. Nurture the seedlings. You will notice energy levels rising throughout the day as the full Moon rolls in. It is exact in tomorrow's late predawn making today and tomorrow full Moon day. This is a very positive full Moon for realizing the truth of things and making important changes. There are two more major energies today. The first is good for initiating greater self discipline, especially in the thought process and communication patterns. The second can bring problems to relationships, especially where feelings of restriction and frustration are indulged. Make the right choices so as not to waste all the good energy on relationship nonsense. At that point the energy will lift very noticeably, general moods will tend to become more intense and the full Moon will really kick in. The full Moon is exact at 6:25 this morning and you will want to consider it to run though tomorrow at least. There are two major energies connected to the full Moon that are very positive and should be made good use of. They are much like the energy from the past few days for greater understanding and solid positive changes. See clearly, make life changing and affirming changes and reach for the highest levels of self knowledge and discipline. Watch the news for this to be reflected in the outer world as well. There are a couple of cautionary energies to be aware of, however. Both can bring problems to communication and transportation, especially where the crazies and the inebriated are involved. On the other hand, there may be much to learn from them as well, if only as warning examples. Make the right choices and transform your personal world.

Yesterday's Moon void of course period runs through much of today's predawn and ends at 5:46 this morning when the Moon enters Capricorn. At that point the energy will lift and general moods will tend to become more down to earth and concerned with accomplishment. High energy continues today with four major energies to be aware of. The first continues yesterday's energy for the exposure of secrets. Guard yours and keep the eyes and ears open. The second is positive relationship energy that many will be in need of. This is great for taking a more spiritual approach to relationships, but it is also good for socializing which is what many of us will use it for. The third brings out the crazies. Watch for all manner of erratic and bizarre behavior. This energy can be fun, but needs to be handled carefully. The fourth can be positive for meditation, prayer and other spiritual pursuits, but also brings out the space cases. Watch for the inebriated and otherwise out of it. Late Saturday social energy will run strongly into today's predawn. Do continue to observe the caution on the space cases through today. There are three more major energies coming into focus through the day. The first is very positive for communication and transportation, especially where electricity and electronic media are involved. This energy is also very good for magical technique and discipline. The second is much more cautionary. Watch for a spacy and confused tendency towards violence. This can pop up suddenly and seemingly out of nowhere. Be very careful around water, hot and caustic liquids and gases and, once again, the inebriated and otherwise out of it. The third is again very positive for any activity involving communication and transportation. Be aware that the Moon will be void of course today from 10:17 this morning until 5:26 this afternoon when it enters Aquarius. High energy from yesterday will remain very much with us through today. Reread yesterday and continue to observe the cautions very carefully. The positive energy for communication and transportation mentioned yesterday actually peaks this morning and should be made use of. There is another major energy coming into focus through the day that easily leads to confusion yet again where inebriants are overindulged and the otherwise spaced are involved. Minor aspects are no help and there is a period of potentially very bad moods to watch out for. This will be a day to make good choices.

The cautionary energy for communication and transportation from yesterday peaks this morning and remains very much with us through today. Continue to watch for a general spaciness and be especially careful in traffic. There is another major energy today that is positive for communication and transportation. Keeping an eye on the previous energy, take an active approach with a go for it attitude and much may be accomplished. Aside from the major energies, today's predawn is open. Good moods should run through the morning, but watch for minor spaciness in the early afternoon. The late afternoon into the early evening has scattered irritability, erratic aggressiveness and hard attitudes. Moods will improve later in the evening and into the late night, but be aware of a short Moon void of course period in tomorrow's early predawn.

Pisces. At that point the energy will lift and general moods will tend to become more mellow, if a bit spacy. The high but contradictory energy involving communication and transportation will remain with us through today. Go for it, but watch for confusion and misunderstanding. There are two more major energies running through the day. The first indicates a general shift in relationships and aesthetics towards a more down to earth and concerned with enjoyment mode. The second is great for taking relationships to deeper levels. There is a strong sexual component to this however and some may be uncomfortable with that. Minor aspects are mixed, but good moods will be available, especially for those making the right choices.
